M E T H O D O L O G Y

System of demographic statistics in the SR is based on monthly processing of data on demographic events drawn from the exhaustive population survey, regularly performed censuses of population and housing; provides information on population as a whole, on its spatial distribution, number, structures, and characteristics in the specific period of time.

The Programme of state statistical surveys - OBYV5-12 Report on Movement

International migration is defined as the change of country of permanent residence of persons during the reference year, i.e. the number of immigrants arrived in the Slovak Republic, respectively number of emigrants who left the country, regardless of her/his nationality.

Data collection: date of birth, sex, citizenship, country of birth, family status, education, reason of migration, date of registration/deregistration of residence, country of previous residence and country of next residence.

BUDAPEST MEMORANDUM

The DGINS statistical session on Population and Integration Issues took place in September 2017 in Budapest.

The results of the meeting were summarized in BUDAPEST MEMORANDUM, the final version was agreed at the DGINS conference and discussed and approved by the European Statistical Committee.

Main action points:

- actively promote the added value of high quality migration statistics,
- to support the analysis of the integration of migrants and their descendants in destination countries,
- to develop and implement common population and migration-related definitions,
- to develop a new methods and data sources (using ADS for statistical purposes, BIG DATA)
- to support high quality national registers,
- to promote data exchanges between countries,
- to develop and promote annual compilation of census-type data as a source of information on migrants,
- to develop a basic set of census-related geo-referenced data,
- to support cooperation with authorities and agencies responsible for the administration and management of migration at regional, national and European level,
- to monitor the implementation of these action points based on regular short reports to the ESSC.

Thanks for your attention.
